Students in the lead...

Student leadership has been a focus for various events over the last week or so.

It was a great pleasure to welcome the new student leadership team to our weekly senior team meeting on Monday, giving them a chance to articulate their vision for ways to improve Fearnhill further and their ideas to make this happen. They are clear, confident and a credit to themselves and their community. There are exciting times ahead!

Students also had the opportunity to meet with Sir Oliver Heald MP when he visited the school. He had a tour, followed by a meeting with a panel of students from all year groups who questioned him on issues of the day as well as his own experience and journey as an MP.

Staff have also been leading each other; you can read all about our art teacher, Ms Bossley, leading a session for the design and technology faculty on watercolour techniques. Pictures of their work are inside.

The library is busy with preparations for World Book Day, including an invitation to parents and carers to visit and enjoy what the space has to offer. We also have our first two 'Word Millionaires' in Year 7.

Students' confidence is growing as we come closer to the production of 'The Addams Family' on 21st, 22nd and 23rd February. Make sure you get your tickets!

Other exciting moments this week have been the visit by 'The Piano Man' for our GCSE musicians, where we welcomed students from six other schools to explore a piece from Beethoven's Pathétique Symphony in depth. Meanwhile, lower down the school in science, Year 7 have been using the bunsen burners to great effect.

Thank you as always for your support and I wish you a safe and restful half term break.

Fearnhill welcomed North East Herts MP Oliver Heald when he visited to meet with students, senior staff and governors at the school.

Sir Oliver was keen to see some of the work going on in lessons, as well as talking to the senior team and governors about the successes at the school and the challenges faced by all schools regarding funding and teacher recruitment.

He then met with a panel of students who posed questions about issues of the day as well as his own personal journey and career in parliament. Among other subjects, they asked about his response to the challenge of climate change, the cost of living crisis, LGBT rights, charitable status for private schools and education funding.

Headteacher Ms Ellis commented: "It is very important for young people to have the chance to hold elected representatives to account and to understand the way our democracy works.

"Fearnhill students are very engaged with issues of the day and took the opportunity to ask Sir Oliver some key questions, as well as to learn about his own career and the challenges he has faced."

Sir Oliver added: "It was a very good visit. I thought it was excellent to hear of the progress being made and to hear of so many new students joining the Fearnhill community.

"I was delighted to hear of the strong OFSTED report the school recently received and see evidence of the continued growth and expansion of the school. Congratulations to all concerned."

Music

Renowned concert pianist Simon Callaghan visited Fearnhill this week to deliver a lecture on one of the GCSE music study pieces, Beethoven's Pathétique Sonata.

Our year 10 and 11 musicians were joined by fellow GCSE students from Highfield, KTS, Hitchin Boys, Hitchin Girls School, Etonbury and the Priory.

Simon talked in depth about the history of the piano, the development of Romantic music and Beethoven's key role in this and then about the sonata itself and its structure and features. Simon then finished the lecture by playing the first movement of the sonata from memory and taking questions from the students.

Music teacher Mrs Landsman said: "It was great to see so many GCSE music students engaged and asking interesting and insightful questions.

"The whole event allowed them to gain a much deeper understanding of the piece that will come up in their exam and many were inspired by Simon's playing of the piece and enthusiasm for the piano and Beethoven's work."

Addams Family

With less than two weeks to go until our annual musical, excitement is running high throughout the school.

This year the show is 'The Addams Family' which takes everyone's favourite kooky family to the stage in a spectacular musical comedy from the writers of multi award-winning hit musical 'Jersey Boys'.

Wednesday Addams, the ultimate princess of darkness, is all grown up and has a shocking secret that only Gomez knows. She's fallen in love with a sweet young man from a respectable family. With his cherished Morticia in the dark will Gomez manage to keep his daughter's secret until the two families meet for a fateful dinner with hilarious consequences?

Join them, plus Uncle Fester, Lurch, Pugsley and more for a heart-warming story of love, family and friendship... with a twist! Featuring a live orchestra and extraordinary original score The Addams Family is sure to entertain whether you are 12 or 312!

The shows will take place on Tuesday 21st, Wednesday 22nd and Thursday 23rd Feb (first week back after half term). The doors will open at 6:45pm for a 7pm start and there will be refreshments for sale during the interval.

The cost of the tickets are Adult £7 and Child/Concession £5. Tickets are available to purchase via Schoolgateway. Please pay for the number of tickets you require and ensure you book for the correct night. Tickets will not be issued, a list of names of those who have purchased online will be on the door and changes cannot be made on the night. Tickets will NOT be available at the door on any of the evenings so be sure to purchase your tickets in advance so as not to miss out.

Art

Art teacher Ms Bossley turned the tables on her colleagues by giving them an art lesson! During faculty training, staff tried different techniques using watercolour, inspired by artist Agnes Cecile. Thank you to Miss Bossley, Mr Rayner, Mr Dewar, Mr Spencer, Mrs Armstrong, Miss Cotter, Miss Jennings, Mrs Taffe and Miss Sinclair for sharing their work.

Word of the Week

Reverberated when a loud noise repeats several times as an echo.

Superfluous unnecessary, more than enough

Science

Year 7 have conquered their fears of Bunsen burners and continue to impress us with their practical skills.

They have been studying separating mixtures in science and felt ambitious enough to take on a GCSE-required practical experiment.

7S expertly handled and set up all of the scientific equipment left behind by their year 10 counterparts.

The year 7s skilfully and safely distilled seawater to produce pure water. Moreover, as modelled by Jake, they did it in style!

Student Expectations

Please support your child by helping ensure the '7 a day' shown below are in place.

All students will be asked to show that they have the following every morning. Sanctions will apply immediately where these are missing.

1. Pen
2. Pencil
3. Ruler
4. Calculator
5. Reading book
6. Uniform

Students are expected to comply fully with our uniform policy for daily uniform and PE kit. There are no exceptions. Students with unnatural hair colour, nose piercings, leggings, non-school shoes, false eyelashes, fake nails and other items not complying with the school requirements will be sanctioned and in some cases may be sent home to resolve those issues. If you have concerns about getting hold of the correct uniform or have any questions about our policy, please do get in touch so that we can help you.

7. Positive attitude

Fearnhill Students are Kind, Confident, Self-aware and Resilient.

Part of being resilient is turning up, on time, every day. Students with below 96% attendance will be subject to our strict attendance procedures. We know that students who don't turn up don't make progress.

All students are expected to follow instructions from members of staff without question, in a polite manner.

All students are expected to be kind to and about others at all times, including online.

Knowledge Organisers

At Fearnhill, we believe in the power of knowledge. Teachers in every subject have put together a Knowledge Organiser which has all the key knowledge students need to learn to understand that topic.

In school, they are used in lessons to support learning as a reference and as a way of checking answers. Knowledge Organisers are also an excellent homework tool for self-quizzing and revising.

At National Online Safety, we believe in empowering parents, carers and trusted adults with the information to hold an informed conversation about online safety with their children, should they feel it is needed. This guide focuses on one of many issues which we believe trusted adults should be aware of. Please visit www.nationalonlinesafety.com for further guides, hints and tips for adults.

Tips for Encouraging Open Discussions about DIGITAL LIVES

The online world is an entirely familiar and commonplace part of life for today's children and young people, far more so than for previous generations. There are many positives to children being able to access online materials, so it's important not to demonise the internet, games and apps, and limit the benefit of their positive aspects. At the same time, we do have a responsibility to educate children about the hazards they may encounter online (just as we would about real-world dangers) so it's essential that we don't shy away from talking to them about the complex – and often sensitive – subject of what they do and what they see when they're online.

Here are some suggestions for kicking off conversations with your child about their digital life...

MAKE YOUR INTEREST CLEAR

Showing enthusiasm when you broach the subject signals to your child that you're keen to learn about the positives of their online world. Most children enjoy educating adults and will happily chat about what they use the internet for, or what games and apps they're into and how these work. Asking to see their favourite games and apps in action could help you spot any aspects that may need your attention – such as chat functions which might require a settings adjustment to limit contact with strangers. Keep listening even if your child pauses for a long time: they could be considering how to phrase something specific, or they may be gauging your reaction.

BE OPEN AND HONEST, APPROPRIATE TO THEIR AGE

At various stages, children and young people become curious about puberty and how their body changes; about relationships; about how babies are made; and about sexual health. If your child knows that they can discuss these sensitive subjects with you, they tend to be less likely to go looking online for answers – which can often provide them with misleading information and, in some cases, lead to them consuming harmful content. Don't worry if you don't immediately know the answers to their questions – just find out for yourself and go back to them once you have the facts.

REMIND YOUR CHILD THEY CAN ALWAYS TALK TO YOU

In my role I work with many children and young people who admit being reluctant to tell a trusted adult about harmful content they've viewed online, in case it leads to having their devices confiscated. Emphasise to your child that you're always there to listen and help; reassure them that if they do view harmful content, then they are not to blame – but talking about it openly will help. Children shouldn't be expected to be resilient against abuse or feel that it's their job to prevent it.

KEEP TALKING!

The most valuable advice we can give is to keep talking with your child about their digital lives. You could try using everyday situations to ask questions about their online experiences.

DISCUSS THAT NOT EVERYTHING WE SEE ONLINE IS REAL

Here, you could give examples from your own digital life of the online world versus reality – for example, those Instagram posts which show the perfect house: spotlessly clean, never messy and immaculately decorated. Explain to your child that there are many other aspects of the online world which are also deliberately presented in an unrealistic way for effect – such as someone's relationship, their body, having perfect skin and so on.

TRY TO REMAIN CALM

As much as possible, try to stay calm even if your child tells you about an online experience that makes you feel angry or fearful. Our immediate emotions frequently influence the way we talk, so it's possible that your initial reaction as a parent or carer could deter a child from speaking openly about what they've seen. Give yourself time to consider the right approach, and perhaps speak with other family members or school staff while you are considering your next steps.

CREATE A 'FAMILY AGREEMENT'

Involving your whole household in coming up with a family agreement about device use can be immensely beneficial. You could discuss when (and for how long) it's OK to use phones, tablets, consoles and so on at home; what parental controls are for and why they're important; and why it's good to talk to each other about things we've seen or experienced online (both good and bad). Explaining your reasoning will help children to understand that, as trusted adults, we want to make sure they are well informed and kept safe. Allowing children to have their say when coming up with your family agreement also makes them far more likely to stick to it in the long term.
